THING THAT MIGHT HAPPEN

Skeptics, However, Will Want Affidavit That Old College Chums Took Only One Drink.

"Well, of all things that live and breathe, if it isn't my old college chum, Bill Edworthy!"

With these few well-chosen words, a tall, well-built young fellow slapped another W. B. E. in the small of his back with such a resounding whack as to almost put his lights out. Even a blind baggage car could see that the young man were old college chums.

"Ding my slats," said Bill Edworthy, the young man who had been struck, "if it isn't Henry Allison, the stroke out of the class of '05!"

"Why," continued Henry, "it must be ten years since I met you at the last alumni dinner. How's things?"

"Fine. Say, do you remember the night when we got lit up and came down with the chickenpox?"

"Sure do. Sort of a stout chickenpox. Well, I've got about five minutes to spare. Let's drop into this cafe and have just one drink."

So the two college chums who had not met in so many years sailed into Dinkler's cafe and Hank gave his order and Bill said "Make it ditto."

The bartender did not think for a moment. "They had one drink and Bill said good-by to Hank and Hank said good-by to Bill."

Just one little drink, and each went his way.

CURED OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Mrs. A. L. Crawford, Medford, Mass., writes: "Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of Bright's Disease, and I am healthy and strong today and have been blessed with good health ever since my cure. When the doctors pronounced my case Bright's Disease was in such a serious condition that they could not do anything for me. I kept getting worse. My limbs from my ankles to my knees swelled and my eyes were so swollen that I couldn't see. As a last hope I thought I would give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. I gradually improved and kept on taking them and they cured me thoroughly."

"Solomon's Judgment"

By ETTA BARRY BIGGS

(Copyright, 1924, by W. G. Chapman.)

Dr. Alvin Ross passed down the street greeted by pleasant words and faces, love for all humanity in his heart. Dr. Juneau Lysle on the other side of the thoroughfare, head down, a scowl on his handsome face, curiously nodded when addressed, hatred and suspicion in his heart.

"Don't speak, eh?" remarked an observant storekeeper to a passer-by. "Thought they were like brothers when they first came here."

"Business rivalry, I suppose," was the careless response. "You see, when they came here they sort of divided the town; Lysle took the west end, among the fashionables, Ross chose the larger but poorer section. I suppose a sort of professional jealousy has resulted. Anyhow, they're at daggers' points."

The speaker had the situation fifty per cent wrong. The two young physicians had been close chums at college. They had selected classmates as their future hold of operations. Everything had been harmonious. It was by preference that Doctor Ross selected a field where the poor and lowly lived. For another reason he had little capital, while Lysle did have some. It would cost money to build up an aristocratic clientele and Lysle was best equipped to provide it.

Now it chanced that within a week after coming to the village Lysle met Vashli Merriam. She was a member of an exclusive family residing in a show country place a few miles from town. He was very much in love with her and Vashli seemed impressed.

Twice Ross accompanied him in his calls. Then one evening the servant announced to Lysle when he called that Miss Merriam was indisposed. The next day he heard that she had sent for Ross to attend her. This his suspicious nature accepted as a direct slap in the face. Ross had no right to invade his professional territory, he hotly resented.

To make it worse, he was further advised later in the week that although Miss Merriam was entirely healthy.

"Can you ever forgive me the awful wrong I have done you?" he moaned when he had sent for Doctor Ross. "How can I make it all up to you?"

"By getting well and going to see Vashli, who is waiting to welcome you," replied Ross brightly—"by becoming my partner and working together like that we will prosper."

And with the sweet calm that followed all his senseless anger, Doctor Juneau Lysle redeemed himself.

Love and Goul.

Some sensitive, loving natures seem born with souls, but most children and youth have only impudence and jealousy. Lysle was a sweet and fragrant flower of the heart, born in gardens where tears are shed. His coming seems to change the whole outlook upon life, the whole estimate of self. The birth of love seems also to be the birth of fear—not fear for oneself, but for the one beloved, and fear of losing seems ever to rest upon the loving heart; fear that they themselves do not give love enough; fear that their love be not returned; fear that life is not giving the cherished one all that is desired or needed; fear that some evil may befall the child or youth, the man or woman thus loved.

NEAT BONBON BASKETS

NEW IDEA IN TABLE DECORATION IS REAL NOVELTY.

Intended to Hold Salted Almonds or Confections—Expensive to Buy But Not Difficult to Make at Home.

One of the novelties in table decoration this season is the tiny gilt and lace individual basket designed to hold bonbons, salted almonds, or other dainty confections. They are the prettiest things imaginable, and though expensive to buy, should not be difficult to make at home.

One should make a trial basket first. Get a ten-cent knot of gilt wire and fashion into a basket, weaving the wire in and out in a very large mesh. In any preferred shape. There is the dainty little French basket, also the square shape fashioned on the order of the ordinary waste paper basket. Both are popular and so quite easy to follow. The lining is of valencienne lace. The first step is to cut a tiny round of cardboard to fit the bottom of the basket, square, round or oval, as the case may be, and cover first with silk in a delicate color and then with a scrap of the valencienne lace. Next cut a strip of lace ending a little wider than the depth of the basket and long enough to go around it and half as much again. Gather the straight edge of the lace and sew to the piece of covered cardboard. Put in a gathering of the lace, thus creating a little rim to stand up all around the basket, trim the handles with baby ribbon tied into bows to match the color of the bottom, and the basket is complete.

For a Christmas table the baskets could be trimmed with red or holly ribbons. For ordinary use one could get a very pretty effect by using a different color for each basket in harmonious fashion. In this way any scraps of silk or ribbon that might be on hand could be used up.

Val lace at ten cents a yard or less will answer for lining. It should be from three to three and one-half inches wide and the scallop not too deep for obvious reason.

Some designs are hopelessly bad at the beginning. Designs, however good in themselves, are not meant to be slavishly copied. A woman six feet tall may wear a dress skirt eight or ten yards wide at the bottom, but the dumpy little woman who is as broad as she is long will be a ridiculous figure in the same enormous sweep of skirt—Belle Armstrong Whitney, in Good House.

Smocking for Skirts.

Smocks have taken the popular fancy this summer, and smocking is employed on many of the thinner materials. The skirt that is shirred, sometimes smocked, into a slim silhouette at the waist line and hips is very becoming to the slender woman.

TO USE ODD BITS OF LACE

reat Variety of Pretty and Useful Things in Which Odd Pieces Can Be Used.

There seems to be an endless variety of uses to which fillet crochet can be applied. A large square of this crochet could be made into a very charming boudoir cap. A square with a rose pattern would be very pretty, although not extremely conventional designs are equally good.

The square should be made with fifty or sixty cotton net, as it will be more attractive if the mesh is not too fine. A picot edging may be added to the edge of the square, or it can merely be finished with two rows of the plain mesh.

When making this cap a casing is stitched around the inside of the square, forming a circle by eliminating the corners. An elastic is run through the casing; when the corners are wired with fine millinery wire, so as to make them stand out. The front and back corners are slightly rolled over the crown. The points of the corner at each side are turned back, the effect being the same as a Normandy cap; but, being made of fillet crochet, it is very quaint and unusual.

Soutache and Embroidery.

Embroidery of one sort or another continues in high favor. Embroidered neck fringes for summer attire and evening gowns are a wise choice for the woman who wishes to have a serviceable and yet a sufficiently elaborate frock. Soutache braiding is well used, too, applied in all the intricacies of embroidered scroll designs.

Turbans of Various Design and Sails of Medium Brim Are Favorites.

A round, bowl-shaped turban of black velvet with a thick trim of black velvet from front to back over the crown, is broken by a bunch of pink velvet roses near the front. A round turban with one high point on the left has a crown of Ottoman and a brim of velvet. A small round plush turban fitting low on the face is trimmed with a russet and a bright tone of blue. Small turbans of silk or velvet finish with a twist like a large wing worn upright and in front. Taffeta sailors have a round crown and medium brim with a slight roll all around. The large sailor is covered with heavy Georgette crepe and a scarf of the tissue, and sometimes the crown is covered with silk fringe.

Two Figures for Fall.

It is said that this autumn will show the two extremes of the straight and the rounded figure.

SEMITAILORED SUIT

REAL MEAN KIND ARE FADING AWAY INTO PAST.

The Man Who Quibbles About Every Nickel Belongs to Very Small Minority—Team Work New the Rule.

"Seems to me some wives have a false sense of pride," said the little mother, as she and her visitor sat on the front porch and watched the antics of her husky baby boy. "Now in the matter of money some women tell me they would die before they would ask their husbands for money. The idea! Who's going to furnish the money if one's husband doesn't? We wives can't all have incomes of our own, and a man can't be expected to know every time his wife needs money, so he can automatically hand it out."

"He should give her a stipulated sum every week," said the visitor. "Then she wouldn't need to ask."

"Pleekles!" exclaimed the little mother. "That's all very well in theory, but how about it when a man's income isn't big enough for that? Most of them aren't. Now, take this man's salary. We need every bit of it and between us we save what we can to put in the bank. Only a rich man can afford to give his wife an allowance."

"We both plan about the spending of our income. Sometimes, when I find a real bargain, that takes quite a lump of money at one time, I tell Jim about it and he digs up for the investment. A wife with an allowance never can buy in quantities, simply because she can't get enough out of it for quantity buying."

"If I want to go shopping and find I haven't a much more as I think I mean to tell him to give me the money. If he has it he does, if he hasn't I don't go into any tantrums and call him a stingy thing. Sometimes when I'm downtown I run out of funds. It doesn't happen very often, but if it does, do you think I'd let any false pride prevent me from going into Jim's office and asking him for a dollar?"

"But you two understand each other so thoroughly," sighed the visitor. "You can trust each other. Jim knows you're not unreasonable, and you know Jim will not hesitate to give you what he has. But just suppose you had a husband who quibbled about every nickel and wanted to know what you did with the last quarter he gave you a couple of weeks ago."

"Pleek!" sniffed the little mother. "Honestly, do you believe there are many men like that? I don't. All the married folk around here are just about like I and Mr. P. The men expect their money to be used for the family and the women know the limits of the man's earnings and are very careful in their spending. Once in a while you come across a real young husband or a real old one that's mean about money, but that kind is fading away into the past"—Edna K. Woolsey.

Now They Don't Speak.

A former Pittsborough who thinks he is something of a fisherman took his first trip out to the fishing banks the other day. Everybody on the boat caught fish except him. At the close of the day he was disgusted, and he said: "I bought a fish from a fellow passenger, wrapped it in heavy brown paper, and started for home. Home was distant, and the fishermen on the way were numerous. Arriving somewhat the worse for wear, he met his wife and triumphantly cast his parcel on the table before her. 'There you are, my dear,' said he, 'and don't tell me again I can't catch fish.' The paper lay on the table, but the fish lay somewhere along the road the angler had traveled. 'You can catch bait all right,' said the wife—and now they don't speak."

Trials of Shad Season.

He was a fish buckwater with an energetic voice, a very prolonged yelp, and a hoarse out of harmony with his enterprise and evidently willing to abandon it on any excuse.

"Delaware was shad!" the man shouted; and the weary horse stopped, pointed obedient to the command being served in a shout.

"Giddap! Fresh Delaware shad! woe shad! Giddap! shad, O! Delaware woe shad! Giddap! Consarn that are horse! Woe—Giddap! Fresh woe—Giddap! Delaware woe! Giddap, giddap! Fresh Delaware woe! Giddap, shad!"—Youth's Companion.

Effect of Song.

Apart from the esthetic effect, the moral and the physical effect of singing is wholesome. There are few exercises better than singing, both for the physique and the nerves. Of course, in its moral effect much depends upon the quality of music. A good deal of our popular music is of decidedly questionable morality. There are times when the sensual effect may easily develop into sensual effect. But there can be no doubt about the wholesomeness of music expressing the noble aspirations of the race. By ignoring it we have shown a great lack of wisdom.

Strength of Insects.

If men were but as strong as oysters they could perform prodigies. For the muscles with which a good oyster holds its shell closed will support a weight of 37½ pounds without opening. A man with the same relative strength could lift a pile of 10,000 bricks in a sort of oyster found in the Mediterranean that will support 42½ times its own weight. This is the equivalent to a 150-pound man holding up 72,300 pounds.

German Soldiers Have Athletic Hearts.

The strenuous life in the trenches of the western war zone or Europe is attested by German physicians, who report an increasing number of young men turning up at hospitals with "athletic heart," a dilated condition of the organ, together with a high pulse rate, that of late years has been common among athletes and is due to overexertion.

Cleaning White Felt Hats.

The white felt hat is much in evidence this summer, but its beauty is gone when it becomes soiled. To clean it brush it thoroughly with a soft clean brush, then take some flour mix it with bread crumbs and rub this into the felt with your hands. When all marks have disappeared brush the hat briskly.

A New Silk.

There is a new silk out in deep dark blue on which is a printed border in deep red and a bright tone of blue. This aids the dressmaker in a most gratifying way to solve the problem of trimming. If we are to wear simple lines, and to depend on our original material for our effects, then we may often be in despair as to how to get in our color.

Tulle on Straw.

A charming hat shows an accordion plaited tulle ruffle around the brim of a straw hat—the straw in coral pink; the tulle in turquoise blue. The result is truly delightful.

TOO TALL OR TOO STOUT

Dressmakers' Art Is to Cover the Defects in Stature of Their Patrons.

Most women, measured by an ideal standard of beauty, are too tall or too thin, too short or too stout, they do not stand well, they walk badly; or they have spoiled their complexions by hook or by crook—something is wrong. The dressmaker's art is to cover these defects so far as possible, to draw attention away from defects toward the good points of the figure.

The ideally beautiful woman can wear anything from a Greek gown to a peasant's attire, and look divine. But with very few exceptions, however, for the perfect woman, designs in dress must be adapted before they can be adapted to advantage. Fashion plates are down upon beautifully tall and fair women to show the proper proportions to be observed in the designs themselves according to the mald of the dressmaker's art.

Some designs are hopelessly bad at the beginning. Designs, however good in themselves, are not meant to be slavishly copied. A woman six feet tall may wear a dress skirt eight or ten yards wide at the bottom, but the dumpy little woman who is as broad as she is long will be a ridiculous figure in the same enormous sweep of skirt—Belle Armstrong Whitney, in Good House.

RUDOLPH

Services will be held in the Moravian Church at 2:30 P. M. Sunday. Sunday school meets at 1:30.

Marshfield Herald.—Every body knows who Frank Gehl is but it is he himself. Frank came to Wood county with his parents in a very early time, from Canada. The family settled in the town of Rudolph, most of the inhabitants of the county at that time being Indians. After his enlistment and subsequent discharge from serving in the war of the rebellion, he came to Marshfield where he has since resided. His parents, both now dead, lived to be over 100 years of age and as Frank was considered out of the spring chicken age over fifty years ago, he would like to determine his exact age. It seems that there were three boys in the family, all of whom were named Frank or Francis and the Marshfield man don't know whether he is Frank number one, number two or number three. Anyway he has requested a friend to write to his birthplace in Canada for his baptismal papers.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The following prices f. o. b. Detroit, effective August 2, 1915:
Ford Runabout.....$390.00
Ford Touring Car.....$110.00
Ford Town Car.....$610.00
No special motor included in this year's equipment, otherwise as fully equipped.
There can be no assurance given against an advance in these prices at any time. We guarantee, however, that there will be no reduction in these prices prior to August 1, 1916.

PROFIT-SHARING WITH RETAIL BUYERS
On August 1, 1914 we made the announcement that if we could make and sell at retail 300,000 Ford cars between August 1, 1914 and August 1, 1915, we would share profits with the retail purchasers, to the extent of from $40 to $60 on each car. We have sold over 300,000 Ford cars in the time specified, and profit-sharing checks of $50 each will be distributed as rapidly as possible after August 15, 1915. Retail purchasers who have not yet mailed us their profit-sharing coupons, properly endorsed, should do so without delay.

Our plan to profit-share with retail purchasers of Ford cars during 1914-15 has been most successful. We thoroughly believe in it, but, realizing the uncertainty of conditions generally makes it advisable to defer any announcement of future profit-sharing until a later date.
We are, however, confident of our inability to reduce the cost for several months, and therefore can offer no profit-sharing for cars delivered during August, September and October, 1915.

J. W. NATWICK, GRAND RAPIDS, WISCONSIN

IT IS BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY

There is an old and true saying to the effect that the grass always looks greener in the neighborly pastures. It is true, and for this reason it is not to be wondered that there are a large number of people who gaze with longing eyes into the neighboring field and spend most of their time in wishing that they were free so that they could retire to the land that seemed to come more fully up to the high ideal of a pleasant life than the place where nature has set them down and seems determined to keep them. If it were not for this fact and the peculiar make up of people in general there is no question but what a large number of enterprising real estate men would have to go out of business and hustle for their living the same as ordinary mortals.

Of course men are not always located in the places that suit them best, and there are many places on the face of the earth where a living can be wrested from the soil, and it is undoubtedly a fact that some localities are more pleasant to live in than others, and that a place that seems ideal to one man, may be just the opposite to another.

To look over the average real estate prospectus from Florida, for instance, one would think that all that was necessary was to buy about five acres in that land of plenty, have a few oranges set out and then sit on a field of plums and money rolls in. The climate is ideal, the land productive, and any man with as much intelligence as an ordinary settler can make a living and a couple of thousand dollars a year.

The pictures show just how it is done, and it is a shame to freeze to death for about six months in the year when a fellow can be as good as well sitting in the shade enjoying the ocean breezes and going in bathing at Christmas time. It looks fine on paper, and it is no wonder that many a man who has been grubbing out a living in Wisconsin for a long term of years feels that he is wasting his life and that he might better be really living. They are not so much of a sucker as it might be supposed, and it is no wonder that enough of them bite every year to keep the real estate business in that country in a healthy condition.

However, men who have visited Florida state that one should not buy land in that country without first investigating the conditions in a most thorough manner. They say that there is much of what is known as "white sand" and that has no substance in it at all. Where the soil is any good it is of a very light nature, and that it is necessary to put on several layers of fertilizer worth a considerable sum of money in order to bring it to a bearing condition, and that this must be done every year, as the soil is so loose that fertilizer that is put on this year is right down the drain and disappears. Of course there are men who make good in Florida and they think that there is no place to live that has so many natural advantages, but if one of these men who have made good there is interviewed on the subject, he will invariably tell you that the country is no place for a poor man to go who imagines that he can make an easy living out of fruit growing without any knowledge of the conditions that exist in the country or the methods of working the land.

Then those pictures of the broad fertile acres of western Canada, that look so nice when pictured on a real estate prospectus, where the wheat runs fifty bushels to the acre, and all you have to do is to ask the government for a quarter section of the stuff, plow it up and plant it, and then wait for the first crop to pay off all the debts you have contracted during the fore part of your life. It makes a nice picture, and a fine story, and the men who write the stories get a good price for doing them up, and the man who can write the best story usually holds his job the longest, regardless of whether he sticks right close to the truth or not, but many a man tries it and finds that there are lies told about every country, and without a previous knowledge of the country and the conditions that exist there, it is quite a long and hard road to the proper course to produce the required income that will tally up with the tale of the real estate man.

Many men make good in Canada, and there are many more who will go there and make good, but it is not the man that one would be led to believe by reading over the literature that is sent out by the men who have land to dispose of.

Many men come to Wisconsin and after trying to make a living at farming for a year or two, become discouraged and go back to their former homes, claiming that it is impossible for a farmer to make a living here. They have read the real estate ads. and probably believe every word of them for years in the city, and the end of each season found them right where they started in, and the result was that they began to think about the easy life of the farmer and the moneyed to them that it was just what they were looking for. After becoming seriously affected with the back to the soil idea they probably put in a great deal of their time during their spare moments in the evening, and it looked like a head pipe cinch from any angle you have a mind to view it.

The outcome of the matter is that they draw out their savings, come up to Wisconsin, and without investigating the conditions or even talking with people who have been making a living for years at farming, they buy a piece of land. The result is that generally they are sorry they spoke, and are glad to go back into the city and take up their old job or even a poorer one in order to make a living.

Where they fall down is from the fact that they regard all farmers as "chumps" and think that they do not know anything. It is a cinch in their mind that if the average farmer can make a living at all, it will be nothing for them to do a great deal better. It takes some experience and probably a few failures to convince them that there are no easy ways to make a living, and that the same old does any other business, and if they have not learned the business during their younger days, it means several years of rather meagre income while they are learning, with a possibility of complete failure.

With these facts in mind it is a good thing for a man to investigate a country before he decides to make it his home and invest all his money. It is better to spend a hundred dollars for board bill or traveling expenses in looking over a country than it is to put the savings of a lifetime into a proposition that you know absolutely nothing about. It means a greater piece of mind.

WHOOING COUGH PREVALENT

It is worse for my child to give whooping cough to other people's children than it is for other people's children to give it to mine. Anyway, it's best for them to have it now and get it over with.

The whooper was a Wisconsin mother of a community who was whooping cough to other people's children. She was a mother of a community who was whooping cough to other people's children. She was a mother of a community who was whooping cough to other people's children.

Whooping cough is prevalent now, and will, if it follows its regular practice, increase in the aggregate number of its victims during the next two months. This prediction is based upon observations of a whooping cough epidemic in Wisconsin, which has been reported by reliable information.

If the epidemic plague were to kill on that and children in the United States, the whole world would quarantine against our country. Dr. Buckner says, and he added, "A child drowns of whooping cough just as dead as a child drowns of plague."

Persons of vehicles approaching from the left must stop to give precedence to a vehicle coming from the right at intersections of street and highway, according to a new law passed by the last legislature.

This is covered by Chapter 157, Laws of Wisconsin, and reads as follows: "At the intersection of any street or highway of this state, the driver of a vehicle approaching from the left must stop to give precedence to any other vehicle approaching from the right, and shall have the right of way over the vehicle approaching from the left, except in cases in which the vehicle approaching from the right is actually in the process of turning to the left at such intersection of the street."

We have not been sufficiently informed of the new law, which is designated to be that of road accountants, or the "general makeup" of the annual budget for the state. But in view of the campaign he seems to have launched upon, which is that he is the politician, it is not surprising that he is the politician. It will be his duty to prepare amendments and to show that the present administration has saved just as much of money as he saved in the case of the regulation of the state of such intervention of the state.

Mr. A. E. Davis of Berlin, representing the Trusts, at the Court House on Tuesday, October 20th, making the regular weekly trip to Grand Rapids, stopping at the Hotel Witter.

Mr. Davis took orders for new suits of all kinds, ladies' dresses, and on the better grade of fur coats, and on the better grade of fur coats, and on the better grade of fur coats.

He will have some very nice samples to show you this season in Fox, Lynx, Beaver, Mink, Hudson Seal, etc. He sure and see our Hudson Seal coats before you buy elsewhere.

Also remember our repair department. We remodel old coats and furs at a reasonable price so they look practically as good as new.

One of the little secrets in our business is that every year some one has to wait, so Mr. Davis at Hotel Witter at your earliest convenient moment drop him a card or telephone him and he will be glad to call at your home. Remember the day, every Tuesday.

EAST NEW HOME
Several from here spent Tuesday
at the Grand Rapids. All appreciate all that the Grand Rapids people did for us.
Irvin was in your city on Friday.
The attendance at the Basket Social at Vandusen club house was in all on account of the threatening weather. We hope the weather will be settled next time.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Holtz were Pla-hills on Thursday.
John Jewell was called home on Friday account of the serious illness of his father, Jim Jewell.
The Adams County club held their meeting at the club house on Sat-day evening. The unsettled weather held down the attendance, and another meeting will be held Oct. 16.
All members are requested to be present as there is special business
to be brought up.
Loeb and Mabel Holtz spent Sunday at the Taylor home.
Eleanor Wollert had a serious attack of pneumonia, but is some better at this writing.
Miss Nina Christensen spent Saturday at the J. C. Potts home.

ought to run your business just take a look at how he is running his own.

Wisconsin produces annually for every family in the state 440 pounds of meat, 70 bushels of potatoes, 2 tons of vegetables, 1200 hundred boxes of wheat and rye bread, 100

goods.

Except for the headache the next morning after he probably wouldn't remember the good time he had and the night before.

Laws Affect Farmers.
Legislation affecting farmers took up much time at the recent session of the Wisconsin legislature, but less than two years ago the new laws were passed that directly affected the farmers of a class. Attempts to repeal appropriations for various breeding and agricultural organizations were made but failed, and these will continue their promotion work in a governmental way. The latest instrument with a single commissioner, C. P. Norwood, which combines the work of the various boards having to do with agricultural activities,
several new features being introduced, and state aid to highway reduced from $1,000,000 to $800,000
per year.

Stock breeders are interested in a new law giving owners of a breeding animal a lien upon any land served or any lot gotten from such service. An appropriation of $100,000 for continuing the manufacture of hog cholera serum by the state to be sold at cost to Wisconsin farmers. The law relating to the slaughter of animals after inspection of the carcasses has been changed to provide for proper payment of state animals. No change is made in value limitations.

A new law was added to the statutes, to take care of any epidemic
emergency arising from another epidemic of the kind which there are now farmers' co-operative organizations such as creameries, cheese factories, etc., are effected under a new law which makes the minimum dividend of such organizations be paid
to eight per cent. This is expected to stimulate such activities. Farmers who have suffered losses from dogs will have recourse against the owners of such dogs under a new law which makes the minimum dividend of such organizations be paid
to eight per cent. This is expect-

To use for a publication
The Division of Publications is not
issuing any publications at present
to anyone who asks for it, and from this each individual can select the
he wishes.

In addition to distributing the publications of the department, the Division of Publication is a convenient source of information in regard to other agricultural literature. The Division welcomes requests for publications issued by the department, and by the experiment stations. These requests are fully answered, the correspondent being advised as to where and to whom he should apply. A complete subject index, which refers even a single mention of all the publications of the department is maintained by the division and should be found useful by authors and laymen.

Store Ice This Winter.
During the warm months of the year many creameries receive a considerable quantity of cream of poor quality because, for various reasons,
patrons fail to cool their cream
quickly and thoroughly.

It would be a great aid to the creamery man if his patron would cool his cream with ice. All creamery men realize the importance of obtaining good raw material, and this is an appropriate time to call the attention of the patron to the necessity for the production of first-class cream. As the quality of cream
delivered determines to a certain extent the prices paid for it, a creamery man will afford to provide efficient
ice to enable him to cool his cream
properly throughout the summer.

In an article on "Cream Grading," published in the Yearbook of this department for 1914, it is stated that in the Grand Rapids area 500 pounds of ice annually will properly cool the cream
from each animal in a 20 cow dairy, but it recommends the storing of 1,000 pounds of ice for each cow to allow for shrinkage and household uses, or ten tons for a herd of 20 cows. Investigation of conditions in that locality has shown that the average ice house costs less than $50
and the cost of hauling and storing ice for the production of first-class cream. As the quality of cream
delivered determines to a certain extent the prices paid for it, a cream-
ery man will afford to provide efficient
ice to enable him to cool his cream
properly throughout the summer.

Ice is harvested at a season when most dairymen have leisure time, so that the actual amount of money expended for this purpose is very small. No producer of milk or cream in sections where natural ice is produced should be without it.

Farmers' Bulletin No. 623. Ice House and the use of ice on the Dairy Farm, will be sent free to any one upon request.

Courts of Love.
"Courts of love" were established in the middle ages, when chivalry
was at its height and love and serious occupation of life among the higher class of society. The first "Court of Love" was established in the south of France in the twelfth century and was composed of knights, poets and dames, and their decisions on subtle questions connected with affairs of the heart were given with great formality.

There is more or less graft in the construction of family trees.

Will Distribute Publications
The farmer who wishes to secure forthcoming publications of the Department of Agriculture upon particular subjects and investigations
should send a post card to the Editor
and Chief of the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. asking that his name be put upon the list to receive the monthly list of titles of all bulletins and reports issued during the preceding month.
Brief descriptions of each publication and a statement of its object
and the region of the United States
to which it is adapted.

The number of copies of many of the publications is limited by law,
and farmers who receive the Monthly list should therefore apply only for those which will be directly helpful to them. As long as the supply available for distribution lasts, copies of the bulletins may be obtained free.
When the available supply is exhausted, copies may be obtained from the superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, at prices ranging from 5 cents upward. This offer is not extended to the Department of Agriculture but to the Government Printing Office, and is authorized to sell all government documents. He does not accept stamps, and payment should be made in cash, orders, currency or certified checks.

As a rule, however, the publications of more general interest, and in particular the series known as Farmers' Bulletins, in which there are now more than 100 titles, may be obtained free from the Division of Publications. Applications may also be made for them to Senators, Representatives, and Delegates in Congress to whom the law allows four-fifths of the cost of the publications to be paid.

The Division of Publications is not
issuing any publications at present
to anyone who asks for it, and from
this each individual can select the
he wishes.

In addition to distributing the publications of the department, the Division of Publication is a convenient

Missouri's Sunflower King.
There are not many people who know that Missouri has a "sunflower king," but it is a fact that one farmer in this state makes a specialty of growing the dural emblem of our sister state of Kansas on a large scale for commercial purposes. He sells the seed to breakfast food makers.

He is Lee C. Phillips of New Madrid county, who has 800 acres of sunflower growing in that rich agricultural section. It costs him something like eight dollars an acre to grow sunflowers, and he markets the seed
at from three to five cents a pound.
The yield of an acre, Phillips says, is from $35 to $50.

Phillips, who was for many years
county clerk of New Madrid county, forsook politics several years ago and engaged in raising sunflowers. The corn, wheat, cotton, and melon growers decided he was crazy at first, but the results have caused them to change their minds.

"I plant the seed very much like corn is planted and two ploughings are sufficient to insure a crop," he said. "I sell my first product direct to the houses that manufacture breakfast foods, but don't know, of course, that the sunflower seed enters into the production of articles of that kind. A large proportion of the crop is said to be used for poultry feed."—St. Louis Republican.

Italy's Water Power.
Enormous water power, improved past few years have gone a long way to ward the lack of coal which handicapped the Italian peninsula as an industrial region. Of these the Adamello plant, completed within the past two years and supplying light and power to Milan and the province of Brescia, is considered one of the most ingeniously designed water power plants built in recent years.

literally be said that ice does the work of fire, as the water supply containing the power springs from a glacier high in the Rhaetian Alps.

From the head of the glacier torrent known as the Adams, the engineers have built a channel partly thru and partly over a mile of steep mountain country. This channel or intake empties into Lago d'Arno, a deep little lake walled in by sheer cliffs. Out from this reservoir the water, after penetrating the mountain wall thru a tunnel, falls about a thousand yards thru a solidly built pipe line and comes out at the power house. A second drop and power plant are located farther down.

Artificial Milk.
Synthetic milk is the latest product of the chemical laboratory. Several eminent scientists, including Sir William Crookes, examined and tasted cowless milk at a demonstration
in London and pronounced it palatable. The fluid, which is the discovery of three German chemists, is made at Frankfurt on the Main. It is the same color as the animal liquid, and the inventors claim that it is more nutritious and more easily assimilated than the cow's product and non-tuberculous. The method of manufacture is kept secret, but it is composed entirely of vegetable ingredients, digested by machinery and steadily by the cow, and is said to keep sweet far longer than the ordinary milk. Its strength, it is said, can be standardized for the family, infant or invalid.

What does Kathrine care about conventions
You wouldn't burden yourself with chores after, if you lived on a deserted island with Kathrine and—Cyrus Townsend Brady's
Unique Romance
"The Island of Regeneration"
A Vitaphone Blue Ribbon Feature in six parts.
Miss Storey is very charming in her semi-savage dress.
You may see her.

The Island of Regeneration Coming to Daily's Theatre Saturday and Sunday.

The deep psychology and the wide views which the Regeneration Townsends Brady has injected into
"The Island of Regeneration" have been so clearly brought out in the screen version of the story that a production in its entirety seems a distinct and keen judgment of human emotions. For the reason that it is so well handled, both technically and dramatically and because it contains such real and vivid ideas it seems certain that success will follow its exhibition in any theatre.

Such well chosen locations, such gorgeous light effects, such pleasing and suitable photography have rarely been equaled. The earthquake and storm scene on the desert island is superbly done, the water scenes are artistic and the island in its surrounding is beautiful with its southern vegetation and uncivilized atmosphere.

The story concerns Kathrine Brenton, an idealist, who, believing she has found a true companion in Lord

Laureford, goes with him for an ocean vacation on his yacht, but before long
the yacht is wrecked and she is left and the consequences are that Kathrine leaves the vessel in the dead of night in a motor boat. She reaches the island where John Chamock has spent most of his life in solitude.
He is wild and the island is surrounded with the task of educating him in every respect of the world.

Edith Storey invests the role of Kathrine Brenton with a feeling and understanding which is at once sensitive and expressive. Her actions in teaching to Chamock the way of civilization are fully convincing and wonderful. She is carried into the study room, innocently as a child.
Storey is ideally suited to the part of John Chamock. He is solidly built and his facial expression when he meets the girl, when he is hearing civilized ways, and when at last he discovers that he loves her are clear and excellently carried out. S. Ram-kin knew should not be forgotten as the important Laureford, nor should Harry Bayneport, the director, the main really responsible for the picture success. All seats in house.

WHEN a fellow wants tobacco satisfaction and finds how he can get it, it's natural for him to put the other fellows
next to the Real Tobacco Chew,
because a little chew satisfies.

Tobacco satisfaction is what he is looking for—the smaller the chew it takes, the better it suits him.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR W-B CUT
CHEWING TOBACCO. IT IS THE NEW REAL TOBACCO CHEW—CUT LONG SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to tobacco satisfaction. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.
One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.

FLAMES FOLLOW EXPLOSION OF GASOLINE TANK AT ARD MORE, OKLA.

Burning Liquid Is Hurling on Town—Scores Burned in Wreckage—Business Section Hit—Disaster Caused by Spark From Hammer.

Ardmore, Okla., Sept. 29.—Fifty persons are believed to have been killed and at least 200 injured, most of them dangerously, when a 250-barrel tank car of gasoline, standing near the Santa Fe freight office in the business district, exploded on Monday.

TERMS OF WAR LOAN

ANGLO-FRENCH BODY TELLS CHICAGO BANKERS ALLIES WANT $500,000,000.

5 PER CENT BONDS SECURITY

Baron Reading Gives Details of Proposed Loan Following Banquet Held in Honor of the Visitors—Kuhn Loeb & Co. Withdraw Opposition.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Financial agents of Great Britain and France, in America to float a vast credit loan, announced formally in Chicago on Tuesday night that half a billion dollars was the amount sought by the warring nations.

The announcement, carrying with it the terms of the proposed loan, was made simultaneously in Chicago and New York. The local declaration followed the banquet to the members of the Anglo-French commission at the Blackstone hotel.

Here are the terms of the history-making loan, as described by newspaper men by Baron Reading of England (Sir Rufus Isaacs), lord chief justice of England:

"A total of $500,000,000 to be issued on joint Anglo-French five-year 5 per cent bonds offered to the public at 98, and to the syndicate of underwriters at 96."

"Furthermore, the proposition is to issue the bonds in denominations as low as $100, and arrangements may be made by which subscribers might pay for them by installment," explained Baron Reading and his European colleagues at the banquet given by the Commercial club.

The New York announcement of the amount and terms of the loan was made through J. P. Morgan & Co. Dispatches told of a repetition of the announcement made here.

Before making their announcement the finance commissioners were informed by long-distance telephone communication that the Anglo-French loan by the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had been withdrawn. Jacob H. Schiff, New York banker, communicated with them.

"It was not possible that we could have come to Chicago without discussing the loan," said Baron Reading to interviewers. "There were surely people here with whom we have wanted to discuss the loan."

"The negotiations for the loan have never been confined to New York and its financiers. It is open to the whole country, throughout the whole of the states."

Plans for handling the proposed loan were discussed by Thomas W. Lamont, partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., with 35 representatives of Chicago bond houses and bond departments of banks.

Mr. Lamont outlined the details of the loan and mapped out a scheme for the appointment of committees of the loan, which will be in charge of the distribution and sale of the bonds in the various sections of the country.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Financial agents of Great Britain and France, in America to float a vast credit loan, announced formally in Chicago today that they had agreed to a five per cent day night that half a billion dollars was the amount sought by the warring nations.

The announcement, carrying with it the terms of the proposed loan, was made simultaneously in Chicago and New York. The local declaration followed the banquet to the members of the Anglo-French committee at the Blackstone hotel.

Here are the terms of the history-making loan, as described for newspaper men by Baron Reading of England (Sir Rufus Isaacs), lord chief justice of England:

"A total of $500,000,000 to be issued on joint Anglo-French five per cent bonds offered to the public at 98, and to the syndicate of underwriters at 96."

"Furthermore, the proposition is to issue the bonds in denominations as low as $100, and arrangements may be made by which subscribers might be allowed to pay by instalment," explained Baron Reading and his European colleagues at the banquet given by the Commercial club.

The New York announcement of the amount and terms of the loan was made through J. P. Morgan & Co. Dispatches told of a repetition of the announcement made here.

Before making their announcement the financial commissioners were in telephone contact with the London telephone exchange, by the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. which had been withdrawn. Jacob H. Schiff, New York banker, communicated with them.

"It was not possible that we could have come to Chicago without discussing the loan," said Baron Reading to the press. "There were surely enough here with whom we have wanted to discuss the loan."

So serious is the situation felt to be here that it is believed General Funston will order his men to pursue the raiders into Mexican territory in case of a repetition of the raids. Officers who took part in the fighting have reported to General Funston that the raiders belonged to Carranza's army.

As a result, the German position, which extends in the form of a right-angled triangle from Ypres south to a point northeast of Compiègne, thence directly east through Reims to a point of Verdun, is in imminent danger of envelopment and annihilation unless the allied drive is stopped short.

In the two days since the Great Allied offensive began, striking at the extreme of this great German triangle with the purpose of flanking both angles, the French and British have captured 20,000 unarmored prisoners.

The French, on the southern line of the German triangle, have smashed their way for two and a half miles through the German line on the northern fifteen miles, while at the same time the British army has broken the German line in some places for a depth of 4,000 yards.

The German war office admits the loss of Loos and Souchez and the retreat of the Germans for more than a mile over a wide section of the front.

New Boat for United States Coast and Geodetic Survey to Be Completed in Year.

Washington.—The contract for the construction of a new United States coast and geodetic survey vessel has been awarded by the Secretary of Commerce to the Manitowoc Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company at Manitowoc, Wis. The contract price was only $189,000 for the bare hull and machinery, but the ultimate cost of the vessel, fully equipped, will be $220,000.

The new vessel will be named the "Surveyor," and will be used in surveying and charting the dangerous waters of Alaska and the Bering sea in the summer and the coasts of Washington, Oregon and California in the winter.

According to the terms of the contract the "Surveyor" must be completed within one year. But Vice President West of the Manitowoc company says it will be finished in much less time.

Tribute to the Dairy Cow. (Col. F. M. Woods) "Grand and noble brute, of all man's animals friends she is the greatest! To her we owe our food, our clothing, our shelter, our comfort, our health, our strength, our very life. She is the channel of trade into which she enters and note the results should she be blotted out. A Sunday stillness would prevail over the great stock yards, our large cities and grass would grow in the streets. One half the freight trains that plow the continent from ocean to ocean would sidetrack for there would be nothing for them to do. Fifty per cent of the employees would draw no pay on Saturday night and our tables would be bare of the greatest luxuries with which they are now loaded. The great plains of the West that the cow has made to blossom like the rose would revert to the Indians from whence they came and millions of prosperous homes would be destroyed. "None other like the cow. There is not a thing from nose to tail that is not utilized for the use of man. We use his horns to comb our hair, her skin on our feet and horse's backs. Her hair keeps the plaster on our walls, her hoof makes shoes and her tail makes soap. She gives us our cream, our milk, our butter and cheese and her flesh is the great meat of all nations. Her blood is used to make our sugar white, her bones when ground make valuable fertilizer and even the contents of her paunch she has herself put thru the first chemical process for the manufacture of the best quality of white board paper and now it has been discovered that that paper can be made into the best false hair. Oh, you who would best false the cow, I wish that I could could for once take from your table as you are about to sit down for your evening meal all that the cow has placed thereon. I'd take the cup of milk sitting by the baby's chair, I'd take the cream to cut, the custard pie, the cream for the coffee, the butter, the chocolate, the smoking roast of beef or steak or the sweet corned plate of juicy meat. In fact, I'd leave you to make your meal upon Irish potatoes, beetpickles and toothpicks. "No other animal works for man both day and night; by day she feeds him food and when he is asleep at night she brings him back to refresh and manufacture into all the things of which I speak. She has gone with man from Plymouth Rock to settling the prairie schooner and through the pioneer's inch by inch they fought to prove that "Westward the Star of Empire takes its way." And the old cow grazed along behind and when the day's march was done she came and gave the milk to fill the mother's breast to feed the suckling babe that was parchance to become the future ruler of his country. "Who says that what we are to a great extent we do not owe to man's best friend, the cow? Treat her kindly, gently, for without her words fall me to describe. "It was the cow that made it possible for man to change the great American desert into a land of happy and prosperous homes. When she came the Buffalo disappeared, the Indian tepee gave way to the church, schoolhouse, and home, and where once wild wolves howled today children prattle, grass grows, flowers bloom and birds sing." Oh Yes, I Remember. I remember, I remember The house where I was born; The little window where the sun Came peeping in each morn. You'd hardly know the old place now For Dad is up-to-date, And the farm is scientific From the back lot to the gate. The house and barn are lighted With bright acetylene, The engine in the laundry Is run by gasoline. We have silos, we have autos, We have dynamite and things; A telephone for gossip, And a phonograph that sings The hired man has left us, We miss his homely face; A lot of college graduates Are working in his place. There's an engineer and fireman, A chauffeur and a vet, 'Electrician and mechanic— Oh, the farm's run right, you bet. The little window where the sun Came peeping in at morn Now brightens up a bathroom That cost a car of corn. Our milkmaid is pneumatic And she's sanitary too; But Dad gets fifteen cents a quart For milk that once brought two. —Exchange. WILSON GROWING STRONGER (By Ellis B. Usher.) It is a strange, even to the most ingenious observer, that the Republican "Old Guard" are busy burning up their old rusty helmets to try to follow up the general election that was apparent in last year's election. It would be a nice thing for them to return to power with war in the air: the opportunity to put new claims on the tariff, that would make it last another half century, would be a prize worth while. But there is abundant evidence that the revival yearned for will not be. Even the attempt to make an issue out of the unpopularity of the government for war will fail except as it is all grist for President Wilson's mill. In traveling over the heart of the middle west a good deal, for two months past, and taking pains to ask questions on trading at all, I have found nothing to encourage Republican hopes. An intelligent young man with whom I dined in Denver is a fair example of the west. He has been traveling over Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and California, all summer, among the big mining camps, where his business is with the great concerns, and even with this sort of an angle of introduction, he told me unabashedly that Wilson was getting stronger every day, in that country, and, like myself, probably voted for Taft, so he is lead neither by his prejudices nor his associations. An intelligent young Southerner whom I met on the train told me that Wilson had benefited in the South by Bryan's self destruction. He said the South was heartily with the president and secretary Lansing these days. I have met strong Roosevelt men who have told me that Wilson would surely be re-elected. One of these was a Roosevelt candidate for nomination of Governor in a western state last year, and a Roosevelt enthusiast. These are examples of many more expressions. The one acid anti-Wilson man I met was a "German-American" of the most unreasonable sort, of the kind that is making Wilson votes every day, diligently. If a married man is wise he never speaks of his good old bachelor days in the presence of his wife. Again the cow begins to look expectantly at the straw hat. This summer's muddy roads put a premium on flying machines.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward of Stevens Point visited her nephew, B. L. Ward over Sunday. Rev. Rathke went to Rudolph on Monday. O. C. Ely and wife left for Springfield on Wednesday to get the remainder of his household goods. Every one knows a lot of fool things one would do if he had the money. Mr. and Mrs. Will Martin, who have been visiting at the Peter Ferguson home left for their home in Chicago last week. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kruger and little daughter Ellen of Plover spent Sunday at the Chas. Voight home. Miss Lulu Nelson of City Point spent Sunday at the Benson home. The dance at the Chas. Voight home Saturday night was well attended. Miss Anna Helge and Mr. John Huser of Rudolph are among those who attended the dance at the John Voight home Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Laging and son, Daniel, spent Sunday afternoon at the John Walter home. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Helme and two sons of Stevens Point and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Helme and children of Almond all spent Sunday at the Herman Young home. What about that story that the Kaiser owns $25,000,000 worth of stock in the Krupp gun works. It sounds like too good an excuse for the war to be true.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward of Stevens Point visited her nephew, B. L. Ward over Sunday. Rev. Kathke went to Rudolph on Monday. O. C. Ely and wife left for Spring Creek on Wednesday to get the remainder of his household goods. Every one knows a lot of fool things one would do if he had the money.

Miss Anna Walter left for Stevens Point on Saturday near where she will teach school. Miss Anna Hetzel and Mr. John Huser of Rudolph are among those who attended the dance at the John Voight home Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Laging and son Daniel spent Sunday afternoon at the John Walter home. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Heine and two sons of Stevens Point and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heine and children of Almond all spent Sunday at the Herman Young home.

What about that story that the Kaiser owns $25,000,000 worth of stock in the Krupp gun works. It sounds like too good an excuse for the war to be true.

Tribute to the Dairy Cow.
(Col. F. M. Woods.)

"Grand and noble brute, of all man's animals friends she is the greatest." To her we owe the most. Examining into all the channels of trade into which she enters and note the results should she be blotted out. A Sunday stillness would prevail over the great stock yards of our large cities and grass would grow in the streets. One half the freight trains that plow the continent from ocean to ocean would add to the there would be nothing for them to do. Fifty per cent of the employees would draw no pay on Saturday night and our tables would be bare of the greatest luxuries with which they are now loaded. The great plains of the West that the cow has made to blossom like the rose would revert to the Indians from whence they came and millions of prosperous homes would be destroyed.

"None other like the cow. There is not a thing from nose to tail that is not utilized for the use of man. We use his horns to comb our hair, his skin on our feet and horse's backs. His hair keeps the plaster on our walls, his hoof makes glue and his tail makes soap. She gives us our cream, our milk, our butter and cheese and her flesh is the great meat of all nations. Her blood is used to make our sugar white, her bones when ground make valuable fertilizer and even the contents of her paunch she has h-e-a-d put thru the first chemical process for the manufacture of the best quality of white board paper and now it has been discovered that that paper can be made into the best false teeth.

"Oh, you who would abuse the cow, I wish that I could could for once take from your table as you are about to sit down for your evening meal all that the cow has placed thereon. I'd take the cup of milk sitting by the baby's chair, I'd take the cream in the custard pie, the cream for the coffee, the butter, the cheese, the smoking meat of beef or steak or the sweet corned plate of juicy meat. In fact, I'd leave you to make your meal upon Irish potatoes, beetles and tooth-picks.

"No other animal works for man both day and night, by day she bathes her feet and when we are asleep at night she brings it back to rebow and manufacture into all the things of which I speak. She comes with man from the north to the south, from the east to the west, and she is the gentlest creature for the sturdy plowman, as much by her feet as by her nose. Prove that 'Westward the Star of Empire Takes Its Way.' And the old cow grazed along behind and when the day's march was done she came and gave the milk to fill the mother's breast to feed the suckling babe that was purchased to become the future ruler of his country.

"Who says that what we are to a great extent we do not owe to man's best friend, the cow? Treat her kindly, gently, for without her words fall me to describe.

"It was the cow that made it possible for man to climb the great American desert into a land of hope and prosperity. When she and the buffalo disappeared, the Indian tribe gave way to the church, schoolhouse, and home, and where once wild wolves howled today children play in grassy fields, flowers bloom and birds sing."

Oh Yes, I Remember.
I remember, I remember
The house where I was born;
The little window where the sun
Came peeping in each morn.

You'd hardly know the old place now
For Dad is up-to-date,
And the farm is self-sufficient,
From the back lot to the gate.

The house and barn are lighted
With bright acetylene,
The engine in the laundry
Is run by gasoline.

We have silos, we have autos,
We have dynamos and things;
A telephone for gossip,
And a phonograph that sings.

The hired man has left us,
We miss his homely face;
A lot of college graduates
Are working in his place.

There's an engineer and fireman,
A chauffeur and a vet,
Electricity and mechanics—
Oh, the farm's run right; you bet.

The little window where the sun
Came peeping in at morn
Now brightens up a bathroom
That cost a car of corn.

Our milkmaid is pneumatic
And she's sanitary too;
But Dad gets fifteen cents a quart
For milk that once brought two.

WILSON GROWING STRONGER
(By Ellis B. Fisher.)

It is a very strange, even to the most inquisitive observer, that the Republican "Old Guard" are busy burning up their old age in the general reaction that was apparent in last year's election. It would be a nice thing for them to return to power with war in the air; the opportunity to put new clamps on the tariff, that would make it last another half century, would be a prize worth while. But there is abundant evidence that even the attempt to make an issue out of the unpopularity of the government for war will fail except as it is all grist for President Wilson's mill.

In traveling over the heart of the middle west, and taking pains to ask questions on trains and elsewhere, I have found nothing to encourage the opinion of the intelligent Republican whom I dined in Denver in a fair example of the west. He has been traveling over Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and California, all summer, among the big mining camps, where his business is mining, and he has seen the great and even with this sort of an angle of introduction, he told me unhesitatingly that Wilson was getting stronger, every day, in that country, and, like myself, probably voted for Taft, so he is lead neither by his prejudices nor his associations.

An intelligent young Southerner whom I met on the train told me that Wilson had benefited in the South by Bryan's self destruction. He said the South was heartily with the president and secretary Lansing these days.

I have met strong Roosevelt men who have told me that Wilson would surely be re-elected. One of these was a Roosevelt candidate for nomination of Governor in a western state last year, and a Roosevelt enthusiast. These are examples of many more expressions. The one "German-American" of the most unreasoning sort, of the kind that is making Wilson votes every day, diligently.

If a married man is wise he never speaks of his good old bachelor days in the presence of his wife.

Again the cow begins to look expectantly at the street hat.

This summer's muddy roads put a premium on flying machines.
